Government Wide Contracts

The General Services Administration (GSA) allows all federal agencies to purchase products and services quickly and cost-effectively. The administrative costs of placing a schedule order are significantly lower than open market contracting and purchasing. The GSA procurement process takes approximately 15 days vs. 268 days for an advertised procurement.

Constella also has Basic Purchasing Agreements (BPA) with federal agencies that allow for the purchase of our services from GSA FSS schedules. Several of these agencies provide support to other federal organizations for the procurement of services.
